CHaSS Outreach Coordinator and Pre-Law Advisor are teaming up to bring you a series of conversations with alumni working in legal careers. Join us each month as we explore various opportunities and aspects of the legal profession. All USU students, faculty, and staff are welcome!

On Tuesday, February 9 Students tuned in for a conversation with Nathaniel Woodward (BS History '17), a personal injury attorney with The Gatti Law Firm, based in Oregon where he attended Willamette University College of Law. While there, Nathaniel was inducted into "The Order of Barristers" a highly selective national honor society for students demonstrating superior trial and litigation skills and was also presented with the "Col. Rupert J. Park Jr. Pro Bono Student of the Year" award, which is given to the one law student who volunteered the most time providing free legal services during law school. Originally from Price, Utah, Nathaniel attended the College of Eastern Utah before coming to Utah State University and worked as a biologist in healthcare research until making the decision to pursue his law degree.
