The most recent book by James E. Sanders is: 'The Vanguard of the Atlantic World: Creating Modernity, Nation, and Democracy in Nineteenth-Century Latin America.'

Dr. Sanders teaches such subjects as Latin America, slavery and abolition, social movements and historical theory. In research, his interests are Latin America, the Atlantic World, 19th-century nation and state formation, Democracy and Republicanism, popular politics and race.

Links for more information: Dr. Sanders' faculty page: https://history.usu.edu/faculty/faculty-directory/james-sanders}

Democracy in Las Américas
Journal article: The Journal of Nineteenth-Century Americanists, fall 2017
Link to article
The Dispute of the Old Revolutionary Utopias and Conrad’s Nostromo: Disparaging and Forgetting Democratic Innovation in Late Nineteen-century Mexico and Columbia
Journal articles: The Latin Americanists, summer 2017
Link to article